

Shielding Terror: How B'Tselem Rebrands Terrorists as Children

Background

B'Tselem published a report claiming Israeli forces killed 54 Palestinian "children and teenagers" in Judea and Samaria.

Global media outlets immediately echoed these findings uncritically, presenting the narrative as undisputed fact.

We conducted a rigorous, case-by-case investigation, verifying the identity of each casualty and the exact circumstances of their deaths, to answer one core question:

Is Israel systematically targeting children, or is B'Tselem weaponizing the "child" label to shield active combatants?

IN DEPTH | The Israeli human rights organization B'Tselem documented the deaths of 54 minors killed by the Israeli army in the occupied West Bank in January 2025 and the impunity enjoyed by its soldiers.

Aiming a weapon of war and pulling the trigger. Shooting a child or teenager in the chest, the back, or the head, rather than in the legs. Then seeing them collapse and bleed out on the ground. Not

"The system does not merely but effectively gives them a licence pointing to recent remarks by Maj Gen Avi Bluth, th central command, deployed in the West Bank, clai we haven't killed since 1967".

Bluth also claimed that "96% of those killed were B'Tselem called that a "blatant lie". Its analysis c found no evidence that any of them posed any t any militant group.

| Unforgivable

This was a difficult report to write and research, as the death of any minor is tragic. But the profound tragedy of this conflict is that Israeli soldiers are repeatedly forced into hostile, high-risk environments where young Palestinians are intentionally put in harm's way by the adults who are supposed to protect them.

Militant groups recruit young men as child soldiers or encourage other youths to clash with Israelis in Judea and Samaria. In the rare instances where a minor is killed, their death is immediately weaponized by the dominant Shuhada (martyrdom) culture, which glorifies their death and encourages the next generation of martyrs.

It is utterly unforgivable that young men are being pushed into these fatal situations by adults who exploit them in life, and relentlessly exploit them in death.

We identified 12 individuals who appear to have been uninvolved in any violence. They were either in close proximity to a target (e.g. a drone strike on a terrorist, caught in the crossfire, etc.) or they were suspected of being a threat. Despite rigorous efforts to prevent civilian casualties, these losses represent a painful reality of war.

Assessing Force Without Full Context Is Flawed

Incomplete Data Leads To Inaccurate Claims: Evaluating whether military force was legal or proportionate requires knowledge of the original threat perception and supporting evidence. Neither B'Tselem nor OSINT research has access to this dataset.

Selective Snippets Aren't Legal Proof: Asserting criminality or full exoneration based solely on selective video snippets or local witness claims is fundamentally flawed. It misrepresents partial evidence, often from biased parties, as definitive legal truth.

Our Mandate Is Context, Not Verdicts: Our report does not act as a military tribunal. Its purpose is to expose critical missing context, which B'Tselem routinely omitted.

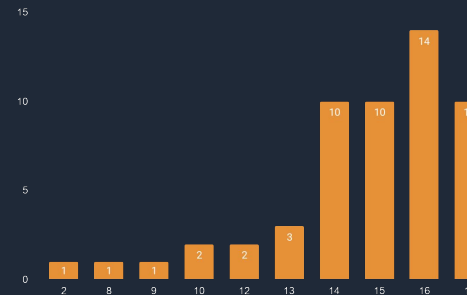

Only Formal Inquiries see the Whole Picture: Only formal military/judicial bodies possess the means to assess each incident, which is why we're awaiting the outcome of the official investigations before judging.

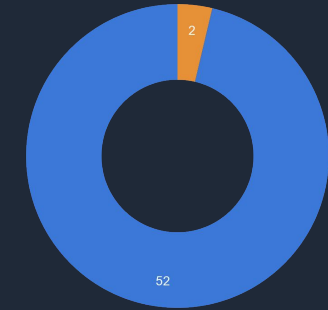

Statistical Overview

- 20% of the deceased appear to belong to terror groups
 - Either Palestinian Islamic Jihad, Hamas or the Popular Front For The Liberation of Palestine
 - The youngest person Hamas claimed was a member of the terror group was just 15 years old. The use of child soldiers is a recurring theme in this report
- 78% of the dead were actively participating in hostilities against Israel
 - According to our findings the most common actions taken against Israel were throwing: improvised explosive devices, rocks and firebombs
 - 22% were likely uninvolved, but they were either in close proximity to a legitimate target or they were suspected of being a threat.
- The dataset is heavily skewed to a demographic likely to be engaged in violence against Israeli Security Forces.
 - 63% were 15 years or older
 - Only 2 of the deceased were female

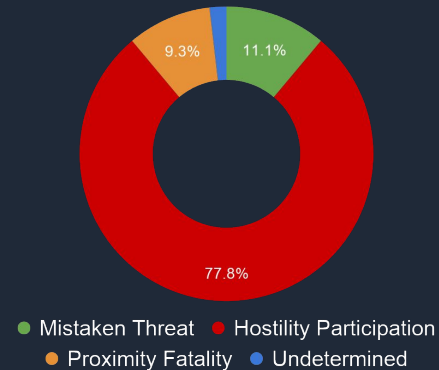

Age Distribution

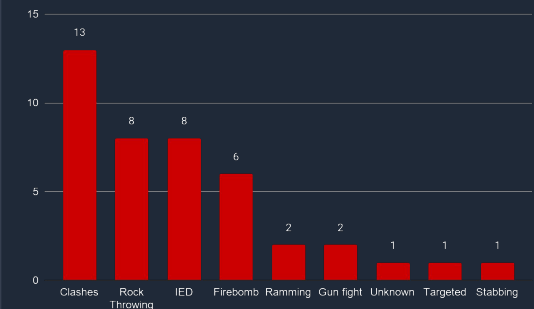

Gender

Operational Context

Hostilities

Where the Incidents Occurred

North

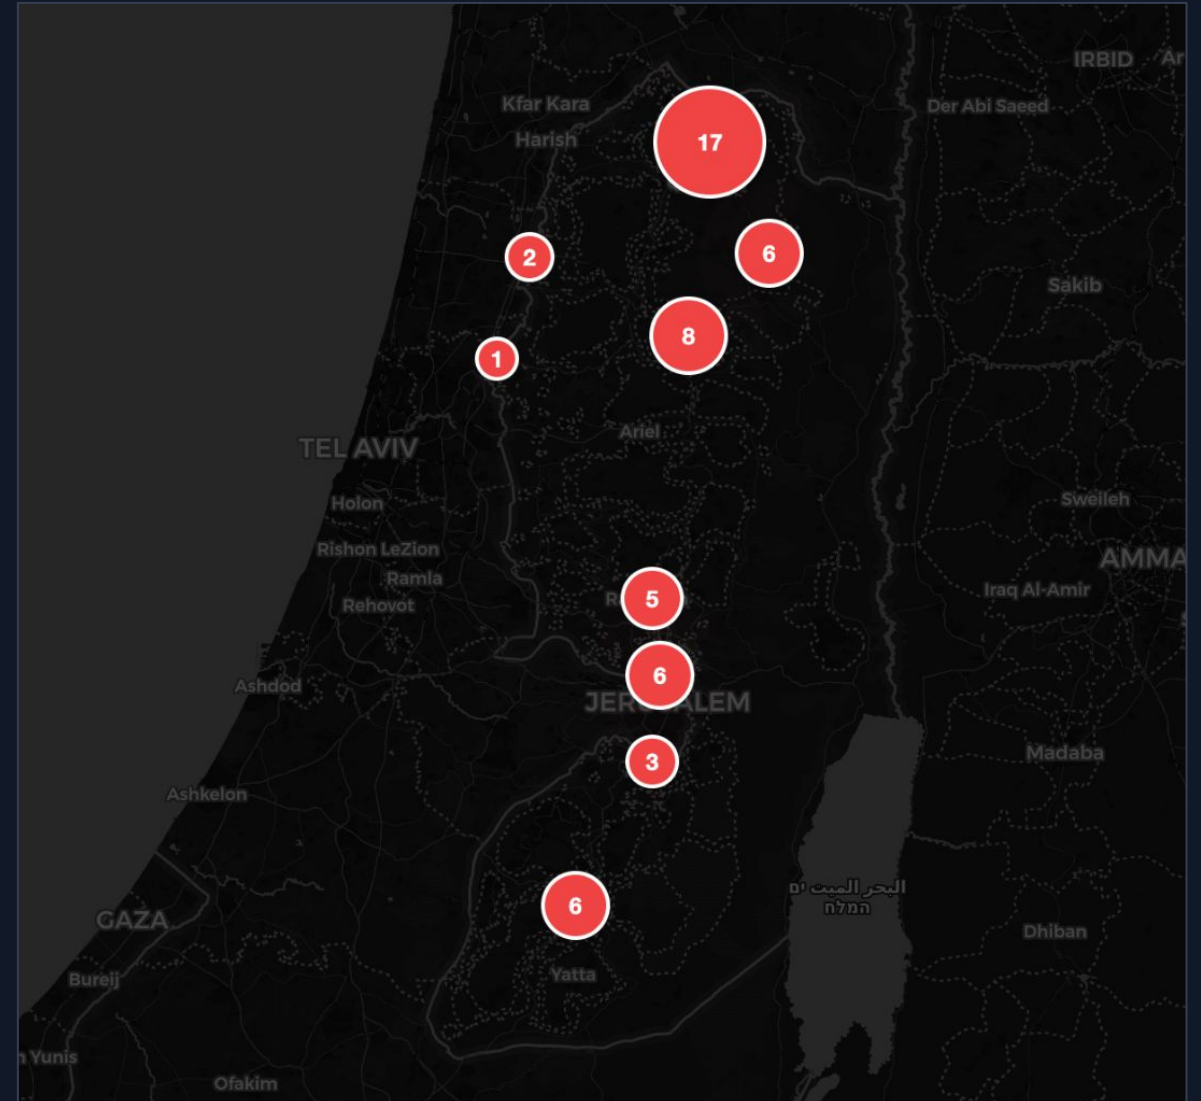

Jenin and Nablus were the areas with the most conflict, despite having smaller populations than Ramallah and Hebron

Center

Most of the clashes recorded in the Ramallah / Jerusalem region were in a cluster of villages (Sinjil, Turmus Ayya)

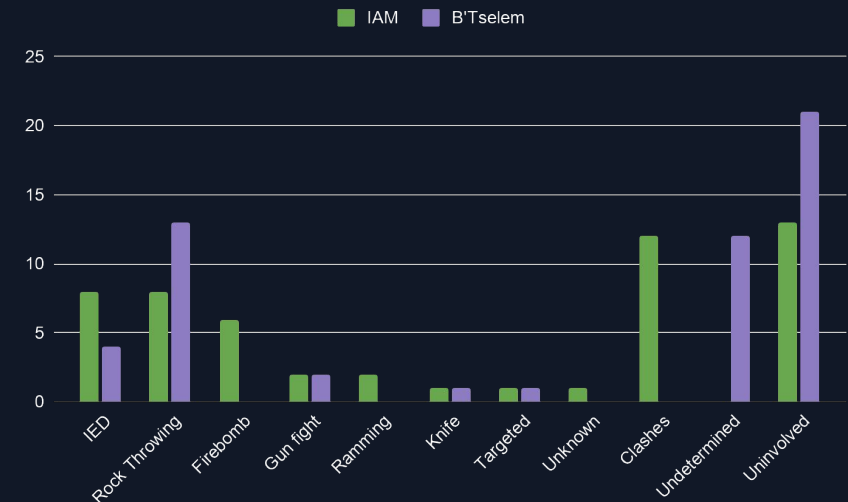

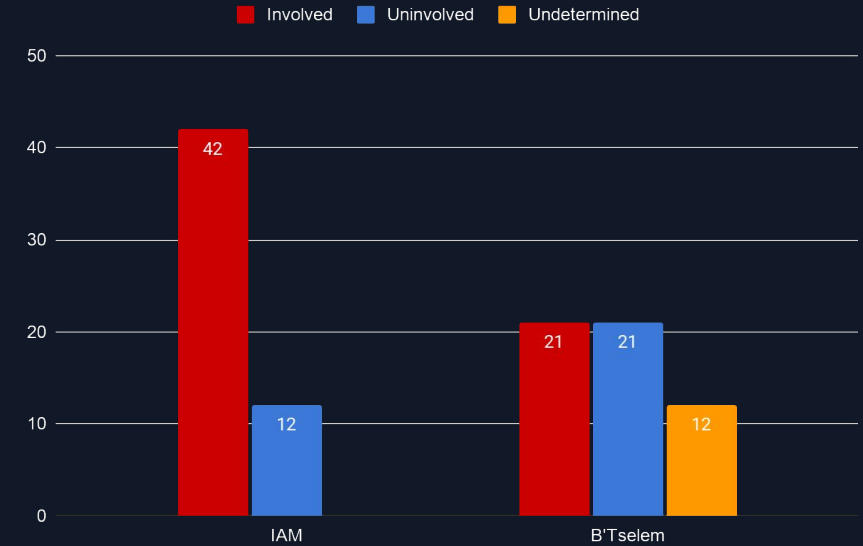

South

Despite Hebron being the largest city in Judea and Samaria, it was quieter than the North.

B'Tselem's Findings vs. Reality

- B'Tselem claim only 21 people were involved in clashes, but we identified 42 individuals.
 - According to the official Israel statements, at least 8 individuals used explosive devices, B'Tselem recorded just four.
 - Similarly, Israel stated that six individuals threw firebombs, but despite video evidence, B'Tselem claimed they were unable to determine if this were true.
- B'Tselem also claimed that 21 individuals were uninvolved, our research paints a very different picture. Using a number of different data points we were able to reduce this to 12, but even this number could be high.
 - Not involved, does not mean that Israel acted recklessly. The fatality may have either been in close proximity to a legitimate target or suspected of being a threat.
 - Israel is investigating several of the cases where the casualties are assumed to be uninvolved.
- Not only is the B'Tselem analysis inaccurate, but they miscount their own data. For example:
 - They claim 5 thirteen-year-olds were killed, but their data records 3.
 - They count 7 fourteen-year-olds, but their data records 10.
 - They count 16 sixteen-year-olds, but their data records 14.
 - They count 9 seventeen-year-olds, but their data records 10.

Methodology: Identification of the Deceased

- Martyr posters are published by Hamas for almost every casualty in Judea and Samaria; civilian or militant.
- They give the deceased an honorific, e.g. "The Jihadi Martyr". These honorifics determine their involvement with terror or violence:
 - Mujahid: They are a jihadi/holy warrior
 - Heroic: They were killed attacking Israel
 - Its: They are a Hamas member
- Other groups also print posters for their deceased members.
- Not every poster is accurate, so honorifics are triangulated with other findings:
 - Footage obtained that captures an attack
 - Funerals where they are honored as a militant
 - Israeli intelligence that has been made public

B'Tselem regularly listed people as uninvolved, where Hamas recorded them as mujahidin.

Understanding Israel's 'Open-Fire Regulations'

- It is legally permitted to use lethal force when there is a "clear and immediate mortal danger" to the lives of civilians or security personnel, or when initiating the "Suspect Arrest Protocol".
- While the specific Open-Fire Regulations (Rules of Engagement) are confidential. Three conditions must typically be met:
 - Clear: The suspect must demonstrate a clear intent to cause harm.
 - Actionable: The suspect must be close enough to the potential victims for their weapon or action to pose an immediate threat
 - Immediate: The suspect must possess the actual means to inflict lethal or severe harm.
- In 2021 the "Suspect Arrest Protocol" was updated to ensure the threat to life can be fully neutralized after a suspect has perpetrated an act of terror. From this point forward, live fire could legally be deployed if a terrorist was fleeing a scene having carried out their attack.

Improvised Explosive Devices

- IEDs are one of the most deadly weapons used by terrorists in Judea and Samaria. During the period B'Tselem are reporting, Sgt. 1st class Eviatar Ben Yehuda, was killed when a roadside IED exploded in Tamun, Samaria.
- According to the IDF, 15% of the fatalities in the B'Tselem report were either throwing or planting explosive devices.
- B'Tselem determined that only half of those were throwing IEDs.
- The most common IEDs are:
 - Roadside Charges: Heavy explosives buried under or placed alongside urban roadways. Often packed into industrial containers, they target the undercarriages of armored military vehicles.
 - Command-Detonated Devices: Devices wired to remote triggers or commercial radio controls. This setup allows operatives positioned at a distance to initiate the blast at the precise moment a target passes.
 - Pipe Bombs (Mutesef): Small-scale, highly accessible anti-personnel weapons made from metal or plastic pipes. They are packed with pyrotechnic powder or fertilizer mixes, filled with shrapnel, and ignited via manual fuses during street clashes.

Fighters from the Border Guard's undercover unit opened fire this evening (Sunday) at a terrorist who threw an explosive device and endangered their lives near the Qalandiya crossing north of Jerusalem. The terrorist was eliminated following the shooting at him, peace to our forces. This is reported by our military and security correspondent Hillel Biton Rosen.

This attempted attack reminds us that just a week ago, a terrorist arrived on foot at the Qalandiya crossing with a drawn knife in his hand, intending to attack the fighters. The crossing forces carried out a procedure to arrest a suspect, which ended with shots being fired into the air and the terrorist throwing the knife. The fighters at the crossing took control of him and detained him for further questioning.

Firebombs

- According to the IDF, 11% of the fatalities in the B'Tselem report had either thrown or were about to throw a firebomb (also known as a Molotov Cocktail), in three separate attacks.
- B'Tselem claimed they "could neither verify nor refute [Israel's] allegations", despite Israel releasing video evidence of the Atim/Qassem attack and the posters of Abu Ayash and Ba'ran announcing they were throwing firebombs.
- Firebombs are most frequently launched at:
 - Civilian Highways: Two of the attacks referenced in the B'Tselem report targeted civilian highways.
 - Jewish Settlements: The other attack was intercepted before they attacked a Jewish settlement.
 - Security Forces: Firebombs are frequently thrown at security forces during clashes with Palestinians.

Stabbing Attack in Jerusalem's Old City - Police Officer Lightly to Moderately Injured

Around 9:00 PM, a terrorist armed with a knife arrived at the Chain Gate in the Old City. An officer operating in the area noticed him and approached him for inspection. During the inspection, the terrorist drew a knife he was carrying and stabbed the officer.

Additional officers operating in the area immediately responded with gunfire toward the terrorist (17, resident of Beit Hanina) and neutralized him. As a result of the stabbing, the officer was injured and evacuated to receive medical treatment at hospitals. His condition is now defined as light to moderate.

Jerusalem District Commander Deputy Commissioner Amir Erezni arrived at the scene and conducted a situation assessment: "The officers and fighters who operated in the area demonstrated determination and a drive to engage against a bloodthirsty terrorist who tried to take their lives in an instant. This attack serves as another reminder of the variety of threats that Jerusalem District police officers and Border Police fighters courageously confront in the Old City and beyond. We will continue to act with determination against terror threats and against anyone who tries to harm officers or civilians."

The investigation of the attack has been assigned to the Central Unit in the Jerusalem District.

| Clashes & Rock Throwing

Clashes

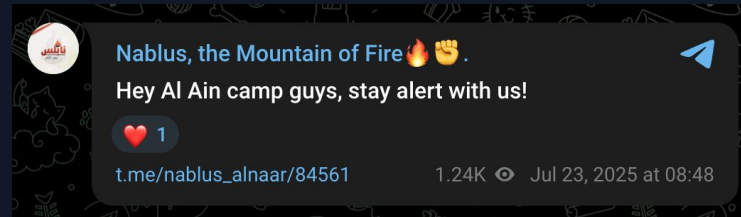

- The witness 'testimony' B'Tselem relies on often contradicts the official Israeli account, so where we have determined that there were clashes, but there is no official statement, we recorded the operational context as 'clashes'
- Where B'Tselem records the context as rock throwing, but there is no official statement, we also recorded the context as 'clashes'. This is because the witness testimony that B'Tselem collected is repeatedly unreliable and the action could be range from rock throwing to IEDs.
- Where witness testimony contradicts the official narrative, B'Tselem categorise the incident as 'undetermined' or 'uninvolved'.
- The clashes we identified ranged from rock throwing to gun fights.
- Clashes were identified using local new outlets and OSINT.

The Violence is Highly Organized via Telegram

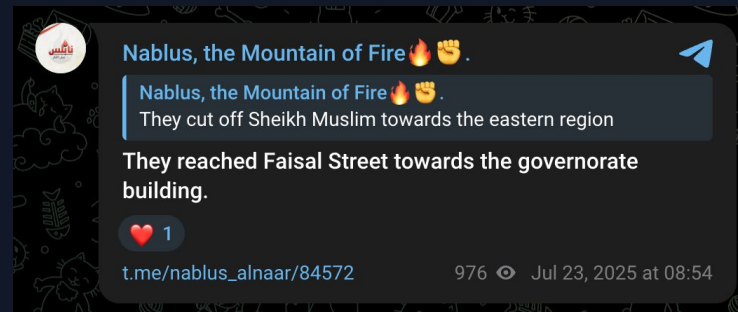

Young men and mujahidin are mobilised when the army enters a Palestinian neighbourhood, Most neighbourhoods have these channels.

Updates are requested from the areas the army passes through

Ambushes are set and clashes erupt

Tips are sent to a bot so that the mujahidin can plan their attack/escape

The Reality of Rock Throwing

- Rock throwing is one of the most common forms of violence used by Palestinians. At least eight of the fatalities involved rock throwing, they included:
 - Attempting to kill civilians who were driving on highways.
 - Attempting to kill soldiers by hurling large rocks from elevated positions.
 - Providing cover, so mujahidin could open fire or launch IEDs at Israeli positions.
- Rocks thrown by Palestinians at civilians driving on Israeli highways have killed. An example would be Asher Palmer and his one-year-old son who were killed in one of these attacks.
- Rocks thrown at Security Forces inside Palestinian neighbourhoods have killed. An example would be Sgt. Amit Ben-Yigal was murdered in 2025 when a large concrete block was dropped on his head.
- Open-Fire Regulations apply here and lethal force can only be employed when there is a threat to life.
- This video shows a typical scenario, it would have escalated rapidly had soldiers been outside their armored vehicles.

Ahmad Rashid Jazar was shot after pointing a laser at the IDF during active clashes. In combat situations, lasers are utilized as tactical laser sights by snipers, or they can be used to blind troops ahead of an attack. The use of this laser triggered an immediate threat response. The IDF issued a statement saying they were investigating.

Ahmad Rashid Rushdi Jazar, 14

Sabastiya, Nablus District, 19 January 2025

On Sunday, 19 January 2025, around 8:00 P.M., four soldiers in a military jeep entered the western neighborhood of Sabastiya, a town northwest of Nablus. The soldiers fired two shots, and several residents went out to the street to see what was happening.

The four soldiers got out of the jeep and stood on the street. About 300 meters away, four boys were hiding behind a wall near a kindergarten. They occasionally came out from behind the corner and aimed a laser pointer at the soldiers. At one point, when Ahmad Jazar (14) emerged from behind the corner to aim the laser at the soldiers, they fired two shots, one of which hit him in the chest. Jazar ran about 15 meters up the street, away from the soldiers, until he collapsed on the road, bleeding. Local residents took him in a private car to a-Najah Hospital in Nablus, where he was pronounced dead shortly afterward. Immediately after the shooting, the military jeep left the area.
